MY CROWN

Written and illustrated by Lidia-Ntombo Lulendo

12+ | 40 pages | 21.59 x 25.4 cm
Spring 2026 | Rights: World

A celebration of diversity and being proud of who you are.

Moon Echo, my favorite band, is finally coming to my town. To afford the ticket, I'm even willing to skip the hairdresser and forget about my braids. That means facing the world with my afro, my little crown. I quickly realize that being a Black teenager with natural hair isn't easy. If I had a dollar for every comment, I could've paid for my ticket! Luckily, Moon Echo's music keeps me going and reminds me who I am. At the concert, I'm no longer alone—I'm there, radiant, wearing my crown proudly.

Three Seek-and-Find books that read like stories, perfect for bedtime and anytime!

LETTERS TO A PRISONER (10TH ANNIVERSARY EDITION)

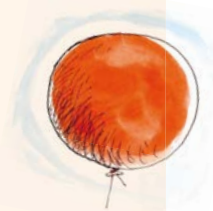

Written and illustrated by Jacques Goldstyn

6+ | 72 pages | 21.59 x 25.4 cm
Spring 2025 | Rights sold: English

A text-free story serves as a powerful tribute to freedom of speech and speaking out against all forms of censorship and oppression.

Inspired by Amnesty International's letter-writing campaigns to help free people who have been jailed for expressing their opinion, Letters to a Prisoner tells the story of a man who is arrested during a peaceful protest. In solitary confinement, he begins to despair—until a bird delivers a letter of support written by somebody outside the prison. Every day more missives arrive until the prisoner escapes his fate on wings made of letters.

Simple illustrations use rich symbolism to provoke thought and discussion, and a letter from the author provides more information about his process of creation.

JULES AND JIM: THE ELEVENTH HOUR

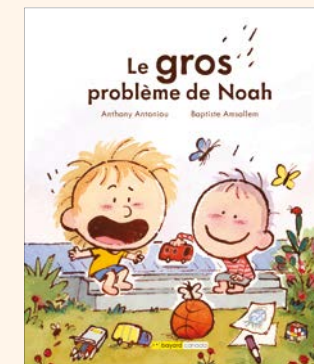

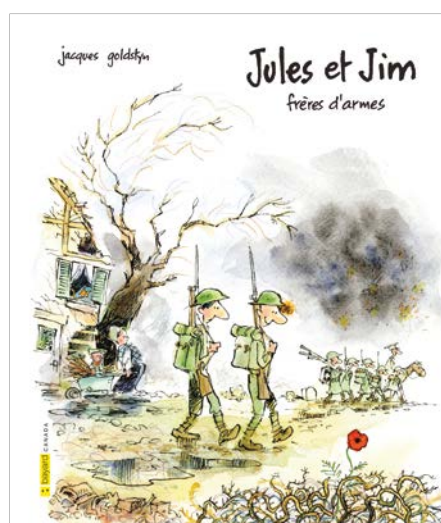

Written and illustrated by Jacques Goldstyn

8+ | 60 pages | 20.32 x 25.40 cm
Spring 2018 | Rights Sold: English, Korean, Japanese, Chinese

Inspired by true events, this critically acclaimed story about war and friendship is simple, poignant and thought-provoking.

Jim and Jules are childhood friends. All their lives, Jim, born two minutes before Jules, has always been faster, always stronger. When the First World War broke out in Europe, the two young men enlisted in the fight.

A moving First World War Story of friendship.

THE GNOME OF THE NEVER-ENDING DAY

Written by Pierre-Alexandre Bonin

The magic of Christmas takes on a whole new meaning when it starts again every morning!

Paul hates Christmas—his birthday on December 24 is always overshadowed. But this year, everything changes when his uncle gives him... a magic gnome! Is it real magic or just a prank? Paul is about to find out the hard way that you don't mess with a Black Forest gnome. His worst Christmas is about to begin... again and again.

WE ALL AGREE!

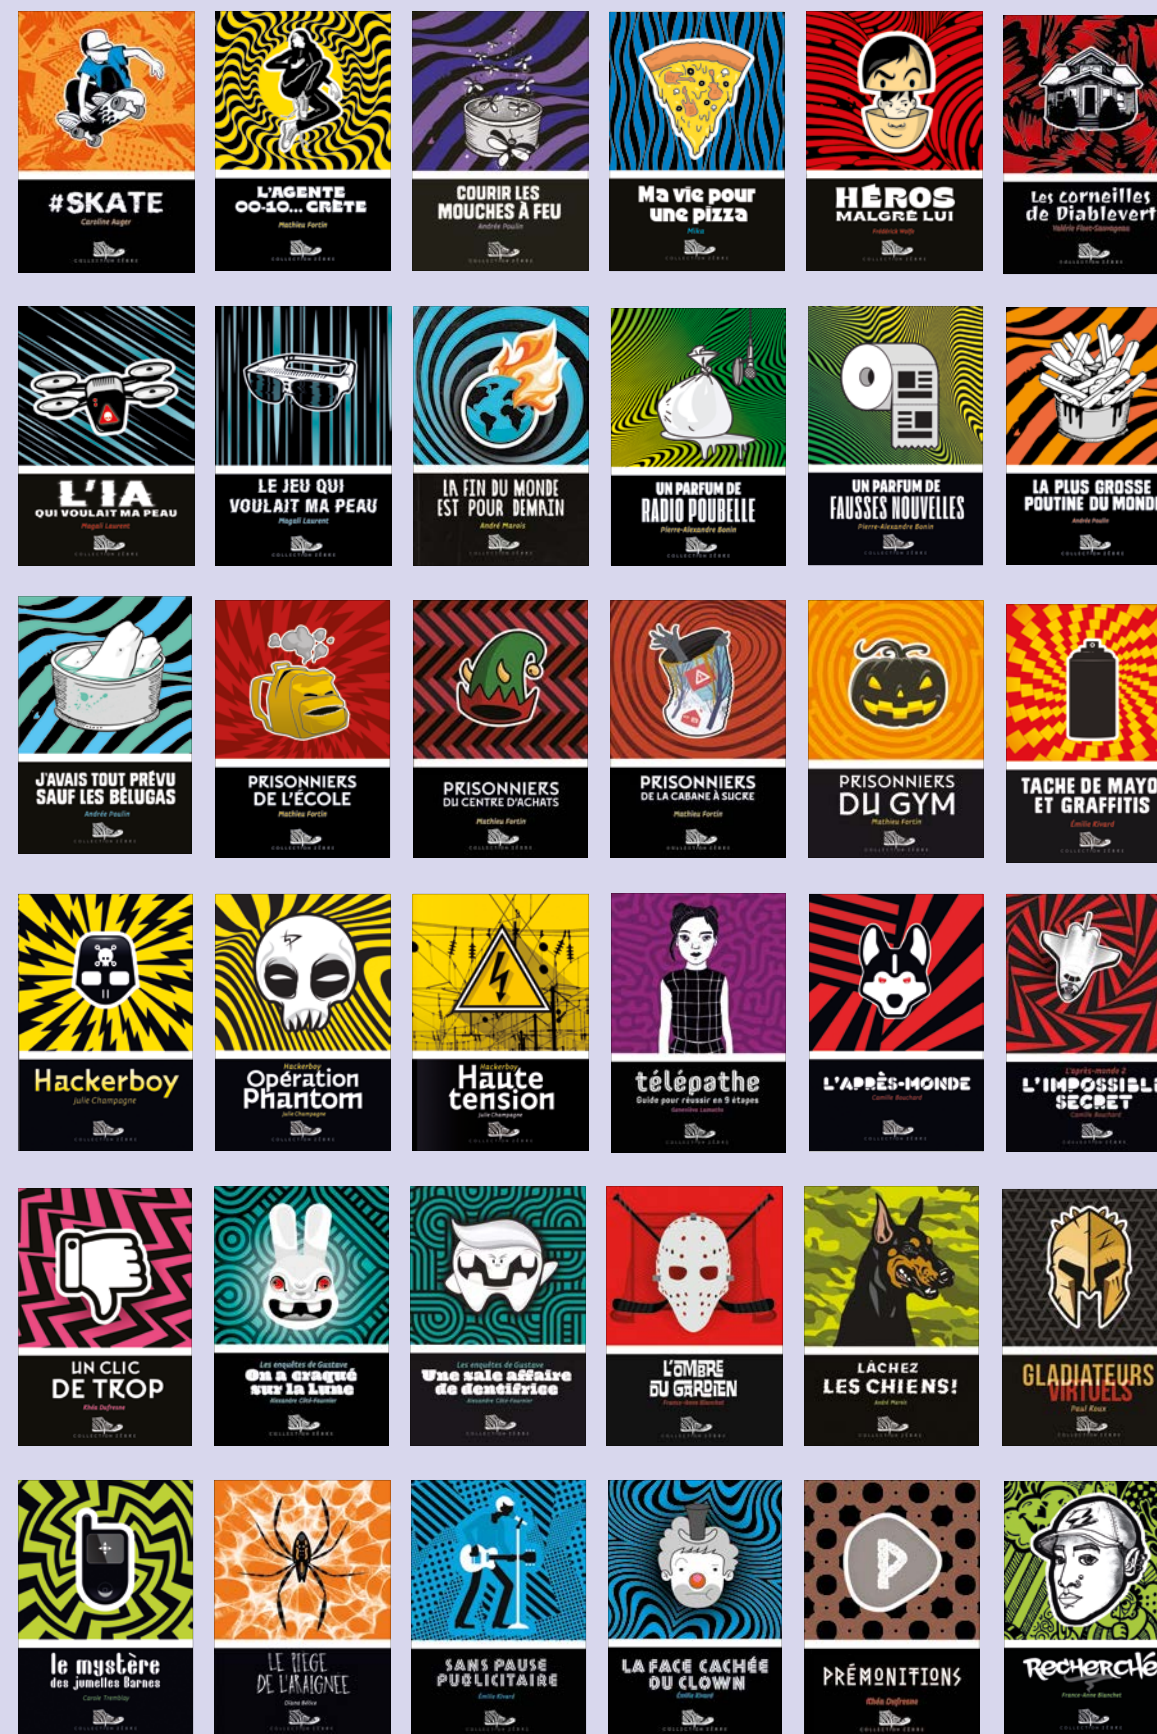

Written by Magali Laurent

Always agreeing is cool. Until it isn't.

Lenny hates conflict and usually stays silent, convinced his voice doesn't matter. But everything shifts when he discovers a strange little box in a warehouse; it seems to influence decisions around him, as if giving him the voice he never used. Yet by pushing things too far, Lenny realizes how easily democracy can slip—because in a world without debate, no one truly chooses anymore.
